Partners Meet in Mulhouse to Shape the Next Phase of Innovation and Entrepreneurship in Higher Education

The partners of the PIONEER+ project gathered at the Université de Haute-Alsace (UHA) in Mulhouse, France, on July 1st, for the project's second onsite meeting, marking an important milestone in its mission to strengthen innovation and entrepreneurship across European higher education institutions.

The meeting provided an opportunity for consortium partners to reflect on the progress achieved so far, exchange experiences, and coordinate the next steps of the project. Bringing together representatives from across Europe, the event reinforced the collaborative spirit that lies at the heart of PIONEER+, while creating space for meaningful discussions on how higher education can better equip students, researchers, and academic staff with entrepreneurial skills and an innovation-driven mindset.

LOTUS x PIONEER+: A new Synergy Begins!

PIONEER+ and LOTUS join forces to strengthen innovation & entrepreneurship across European Higher Education

Following the successful PIONEER+ project meeting in Colmar, the consortium took the opportunity to further strengthen collaboration through a joint workshop with the LOTUS Project at the CCI Colmar. The workshop brought together project partners, academics, and innovation experts to exchange experiences, identify common challenges, and explore new opportunities for collaboration within the European innovation ecosystem.

This synergy between PIONEER+ and LOTUS, both supported by the EIT Higher Education Initiative, highlighted the added value of cross-project collaboration in strengthening innovation and entrepreneurship within higher education. By sharing experiences, methodologies, and lessons learned, the two projects demonstrated how collaboration beyond individual project boundaries can maximise impact and create stronger, more connected innovation ecosystems across Europe.

Another PIONEER+ training activity successfully completed by the Université de Haute-Alsace!

On 15 June, our partner Université de Haute-Alsace - UHA delivered a training session for academic and non-academic staff focused on entrepreneurship and entrepreneurial education.

The session provided participants with practical tools and methods to strengthen entrepreneurship teaching and explore how entrepreneurial thinking can be integrated into their courses. Combining preparatory online content, expert guidance, and a collaborative workshop, the training engaged around 15 participants in an interactive learning experience.
